Carolyn takes WiP north chair

CAROLYN MELLOR, chief executive of flourishing Manchester-based estate agency homes4u, has been appointed chair of the northern branch of the Association of Women in Property, the national development organisation for women in the property and construction industries.

Her role, in succession to Juliette Bradbury, encompasses three main initiatives this year — to increase the membership of WiP in the Liverpool area, improve communications with members and guests by introducing an additional committee role of new membership secretary, and generally assist with raising the profile of WiP in the North West region.

Carolyn said: "I have found the networking and development opportunities WiP provides invaluable to the expansion of my business, which is why I feel it is so important more people in the sector know about the organisation. We've a variety of excellent events planned for this year including the annual dinner at the Midland Hotel on May 13.

"I hope to see the organisation continue to go from strength to strength in the region throughout 2005."
